REPORTS

The following letter of transmittal was presented by the Chief Clerk and ordered printed in the Journal:

California State Auditor

2022-107
June 29, 2023

*The Honorable Speaker of the Assembly
The Honorable Members of the Assembly of the Legislature of California
State Capitol, Room 319
Sacramento, California*

Members of the Assembly: As directed by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, my office conducted an audit of the California State University's (CSU) compliance with the 1990 federal Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act (NAGPRA) and its 2001 California counterpart, CalNAGPRA. These acts establish requirements for the repatriation, or return, of Native American human remains and cultural items to tribes by government agencies and museums—which include the CSU's campuses—that maintain collections of such items. This report concludes that although the CSU's Office of the Chancellor (Chancellor's Office) has taken some limited steps recently to support the campuses' repatriation efforts, it must take additional action to ensure that campuses prioritize complying with NAGPRA and CalNAGPRA.

We surveyed all 23 CSU campuses and conducted on-site reviews at four—Chico State University, Sacramento State University, San Diego State University, and San José State University. We found that of the 21 campuses with NAGPRA collections, more than half have not repatriated any remains or cultural items to tribes and that two campuses that returned remains or cultural items did not follow NAGPRA requirements when doing so. More than half of these 21 campuses do not yet know the extent of their collections of remains and cultural items, despite federal law requiring them to do so by late 1995. In part because campuses have not prioritized NAGPRA, they generally lack the policies, funding, and staffing necessary to follow the law and repatriate their collections. Factors such as these have contributed to the CSU system making little progress in the timely return of human remains and cultural items to tribes, repatriating just 6 percent of its collections to tribes to date.

The Chancellor's Office has not provided the guidance and oversight necessary for campuses to comply with NAGPRA and CalNAGPRA. For example, it has not issued a systemwide policy to provide guidance to campuses, nor has it ensured that campuses prioritize funding for their repatriation activity. Additionally, the Chancellor's Office lacks mechanisms—such as a systemwide NAGPRA committee—to oversee campus repatriation efforts. Although the Chancellor's Office has recently begun planning such efforts, it must finalize them and provide additional guidance to ensure that the CSU repatriates its collections of Native American remains and cultural items as required by law and in a timely manner.

Respectfully submitted,

GRANT PARKS
California State Auditor

Above report referred to the Committee on Higher Education.
